Parenting: Selected eBooks

Ask an expert: answers every parent needs to know: issues from toddler tantrums and meltdowns to peer pressure and teen self-esteem. Claire Halsey, 2009.

Find out how to tame a toddler tantrum, the right amount of screen time for kids, and how to encourage children's independence. This expert guide answers real-life questions with problem-solving strategies.

Beyond behavior management: the six life skills children need. Jenna Blimes, 2012.

This book provides a strength-based approach to guiding and managing young children's behavior by helping them build and use essential life skills such as collaboration, self-regulation, and adaptability.

Children of substance abusing parents. Shulamith Straussner, 2011.

This book is intended as a reference for all mental health professionals and students who need to understand and treat this population. It offers a look at treatment options and programmatic interventions across the life span. The contributors include a range of experts who provide evidence-based clinical and programmatic strategies for working with children of alcohol and other substance-abusing parents of any age and in almost any practice setting.

Foster parenting step-by-step: how to nurture the traumatized child and overcome conflict. Kalyani Gopal, 2013.

This book describes the trauma that can be experienced by children in foster care and the effect of that trauma on their behavior. The author summarizes successful evidence-based strategies that develop the parent-child bond. Although the book was written for foster parents, it would be useful to anyone working with children who are or have been in foster care.

NEW! Great kids: helping your baby and child develop the ten essential qualities for a happy, healthy life. Stanley I. Greenspan, 2007.

Greenspan explains how parents can nurture empathy, curiosity, emotional balance, and self-discipline.

Help! There's a toddler in the house!: proven strategies for parents of 2- to 6-year-olds to survive and thrive through the mischief, mayhem, and meltdowns. Thomas M. Reimers, 2011.

The naughty as well as challenging behaviors of young children can drive even the most patient parents to their wits' end. In these pages, parents learn how to cope with and correct many of the most common behavioral problems that little ones demonstrate.

Letters to the home front: positive thoughts and ideas for parents bringing up children with developmental disabilities, particularly those with an autism spectrum disorder. John Clements, 2013. Bringing up a child with developmental disabilities, especially autism, presents many challenges for parents, and the focus of attention is almost invariably on the child. This practical and compassionate book looks at a range of issues from the parents' point of view, from whether their child really loves them, to challenging received wisdom on matters such as sensory integration and boarding school.

Mastering whole family assessment in social work: balancing the needs of children, adults, and their families. Fiona Mainstone, 2014. How do you keep the whole family in mind when carrying out social work assessment? How do you balance the needs of adults and children? How do you ensure that children's welfare and safety are everyone's priority when families face complex difficulties? This book brings together what social workers in adult and children services need to know about assessment across both services.

Parenting across cultures: childrearing, motherhood, and fatherhood in non-western cultures. Helaine Selin, 2014.

There is a strong connection between culture and parenting. What is acceptable in one culture is frowned upon in another. This applies to behavior after birth, encouragement in early childhood, and regulation and freedom during adolescence. There are differences in affection and distance, harshness and repression, and acceptance and criticism. Some parents insist on obedience; others are concerned with individual development. This clearly differs from parent to parent, but there is just as clearly a connection to culture. This book includes chapters on China, Colombia, Jordan, Kenya, the Philippines, Thailand, Korea, Vietnam, Native Americans, Mexico, Pakistan, Nigeria, and several other countries.

Parenting and substance abuse: developmental approaches to intervention. Linda C. Mayes, Pajulo Marjukka, and Nancy E. Suchman, 2013.

This book focuses on treatment models for parents, primarily pregnant and parenting women, including descriptions of treatments that focus on parental addiction and the parent-child relationship within a developmental framework.

Planning and observation of children under three. Helen Bradford, 2012.

This book explains why the planning cycle is important when caring for and supporting young children. It looks at the links between observation, planning, and assessment. Taking a holistic approach to supporting children's learning, it shows how a range of observation strategies can provide insight into children's social, emotional, physical, and cognitive development and demonstrates how practitioners can develop appropriate planning and observation techniques for babies and toddlers.

Preemie primer: a complete guide for parents of premature babies from birth through the toddler years and beyond. Jennifer Gunter, 2010.

Having a premature baby can be a crash course in both medicine and health economics, not just in parenting. Parents face complex information, difficult decisions, and overwhelming grief and worry. This book is a comprehensive resource, covering topics from delivery, hospitalization, and preemie development to parenting multiples, handling health issues, and finding special-needs programs.

Ready for air: a journey through premature motherhood. Kate Hopper, 2013.

With candor, grace, and a healthy dose of humor, Hopper takes us into the final weeks of her pregnancy, the first weeks of her daughter Stella's life, and the isolated world she and her husband inhabited when they took their daughter home. She is down-to-earth and honest about the hard realities of having a baby, as well as the true joys of motherhood.

Retro baby: cut back on all the gear and boost your baby's development with more than 100 time-tested activities. Anne H. Zachary, 2014.

Baby bouncers, carriers, electronic toys, and "educational" videos are intended to make our children smarter and our lives easier, but can their overuse negatively impact infant development? Absolutely. This book helps caregivers understand the potential dangers of extended equipment use and overexposure to technology.

Sleep: what every parent needs to know, 2nd ed. Rachel Moon, 2013. Sooner or later, most parents face challenges at bedtime. From infants and toddlers, to school-age kids and adolescents, sleeptime problems can affect everyone in the family. And no matter what your child's difficulty may be, getting to sleep, staying asleep, bed-wetting, fears or nightmares, it's never too late to take steps to correct it.

Supporting families experiencing homelessness: current practices and future directions. Beryl Ann Cowan, Staci Perlman, and Mary E. Haskett, 2014.

This book aims to raise the standard of services provided to families without homes through practices that are strengths-based and culturally competent. This book provides a contextual overview of family homelessness. An ecological and developmental framework for understanding the implications of homelessness from infancy through adulthood are presented with reference to existing research. The book also addresses innovative designs for providing collaboration between and among diverse services that interface with families experiencing homelessness.

Understanding families: supportive approaches to diversity, disability, and risk, 2nd ed. Marci J. Hanson and Eleanor W. Lynch, 2013.

This book helps readers work with a broad range of families who have diverse structures, backgrounds, and circumstances. Readers learn to communicate and collaborate effectively with every family they serve; support families of children with disabilities; advance strong parent-child attachment and interactions; address risk factors such as poverty, addiction, and violence; promote the mental health of young children; and more.

What children need to be happy, confident and successful: step by step positive psychology to help children flourish. Jeni Hooper, 2012.

What makes children happy, confident and successful? This book provides a practical model for helping children flourish and achieve their personal potential in every area of their lives. Drawing on ideas from positive psychology and child development theory, the model explores the five key areas of wellbeing: personal strengths, emotional wellbeing, positive communication, learning strengths, and resilience.

Your preemie baby: caring for your premature baby. Su Laurent, 2012.

Having a baby is a life-changing event for parents, and giving birth prematurely can bring a complex set of challenges and emotions to an already intense experience. In this book, Dr. Laurent guides parents through life with a premature baby, giving them the tools they need to parent confidently.
