

Texas Vaccines for Children (TVFC) Providers,

Join the Texas Department of State Health Services (DSHS) and Sanofi for a webinar on respiratory syncytial virus \(RSV\) disease and immunization.

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) Advisory Committee on Immunization Practices (ACIP) approved the recommendation of a new immunization called nirsevimab (Beyfortus™) to help protect infants under eight months and some older babies at increased risk of severe illness caused by RSV. Additionally, ACIP voted to include nirsevimab in the Vaccines for Children (TVFC) Program. Nirsevimab is expected to be available this fall for the upcoming RSV season.

The webinar will include a Q&A session where subject matter experts will answer questions pertinent to RSV disease and immunization.
