Environmental Health Training for Community Health Workers, Public Health Professionals, & Community Members

The Southwest Center for Pediatric Environmental Health (SWCPEH), Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center El Paso (TTUHSC El Paso) Department of Emergency Medicine, and the West Texas Regional Poison Center (WTPC) are proud to sponsor a one and a half day environmental health training in Laredo, Texas. This free training will lead participants to understand the connection between the environment and our health. This training is meant for community health workers, promotores, and other public health professionals that are directly working with the community as well as teachers, daycare workers, community members and anyone interesting in learning about environmental health. We will cover topics such as why children are at an increased risk for environmental hazardous exposures, keeping your family protected from hazardous household chemicals, emergency preparedness, heat, pesticide use, and other environmental health topics.

This training is FREE of charge!

Trainings will be offered in English & Spanish

Date & Time: July 22, 2026 from 8:00 am - 4:00 pm
