Healthy Homes Workshop

The Southwest Center for Pediatric Environmental Health (SWCPEH) and Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center El Paso (TTUHSC El Paso) Department of Emergency Medicine are proud to sponsor a one day Healthy Homes workshop in Laredo, TX. This training will lead participants to understand the connection between housing and health and how to take a holistic approach to identify and resolve problems that threaten the health and well-being of residents, especially children. The curriculum identifies root causes of health problems, such as asthma, influenced by the indoor environment. The workshop focuses on the eleven “Keep It” principles of a healthy home: clean, dry, pest-free, contaminant-free, safe, ventilated, comfortable, maintained, accessible, affordable, and emergency ready.

Presentations will be provided in both English and Spanish.

This training is FREE of charge!
