The goal of this fellowship is to allow those interested in learning more about public health to gain experience. In this fellowship, the applicant will be a part of the Health Equity and COVID Team at Amarillo Public Health Department. Responsibilities will include outreach, public education, data collection, social media, and other duties as assigned. Applicants will be trained from different programs within the Public Health Department. This program will have a high emphasis on vaccine education, building vaccine confidence, general COVID knowledge, health disparities, cultural competencies, appropriately engaging in the community, and building community partners. This position will work with our refugee population and other target populations that are at high risk for COVID. This would be a great position for a high school graduate who is looking for what direction to take their education and would like to learn and apply skills once they have learned certain areas of public health. This will be a great learning opportunity. Travel within two counties for outreach events and work at multicultural center.
